

Now is not the time to re-monopolize telecommunications. The RBOCs should be structurally separated more, not less! UNE unbundling is just the minimal. They should be separated fully, splitting the physical plant (poles, conduit, copper, fiber, central offices) from the services. The physical plant should be a regulated utility. The rest should be fully separated and competitive on an equal footing with other competitors.